Issue No. 14

December 2016

Since the financial crisis and trade collapse of 2008-09, demand for up-to-date information on international trade has increased sharply. Unfortunately for users, data on merchandise trade in volume terms tend to be released with long lags and at relatively low frequencies. In order to better understand the current state of international trade the WTO developed the World Trade Outlook Indicator (WTOI), a composite index of trade-
