

Damage inflicted on the rights of others and resultant negligence liability

Article (304) every action or illegal abstention of one, whether intentional or semi-intentional or unintentional, if it inflicts damage to others, merits the perpetrator to compensate the inflicted party for damages, notwithstanding penalties for crimes prescribed by enforced laws.