Last but not least, we see the proposed Annex on Special and Differential Treatment as a package worthy for adoption. We look forward to work on the pending proposals being intensified and satisfactorily concluded.

A major test of the Doha Development Agenda is how it will deliver on its promise of increasing market access for the products and services of developing countries. Expectations were raised two years ago in Doha. My most sincere hope is that these be lived up to.

Globalization should not only mean that the markets of developing countries are opened to
